

Since 1989, I have been dedicated to constructing environmentally friendly homes. Beginning in 1997, my focus shifted to energy-efficient housing based on traditional wooden architecture, developed in close partnership with forestry communities.

Since 2024, Shinji Yasunari have served as Chairman of both Japan Builders Network (JBN), a leading national organization representing building contractors, and the All Japan Society of Wooden Construction.